

<body> - BODY TAG IN HTML

Definition of <body> tag:

- The <body> tag encloses all the contents of an HTML document.
- The body tag have all the contents of an web page like header tag, title tag, paragraph tag, image tag, and etc.,
- It must be the second element of an <html> element.
- The body tag is in the flow content category.
- The <body> tag also support both Global Attribute and Event attribute.

Syntax for body tag:

```
<body>content </body>
```

Differences between HTML 4.01 and HTML5 for body tag:

HTML 4.0.1

alink, background, bgcolor, link, text, vlink attributes are used.

HTML5

Layout attributes are removed.

Sample Coding for <body> tag:

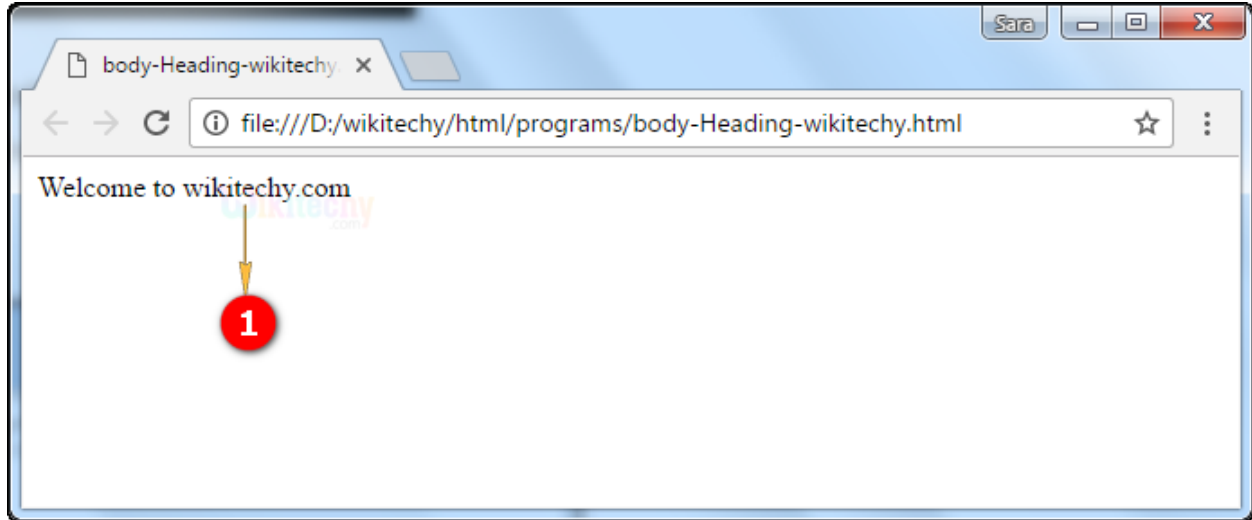

```
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
  <body>
    Welcome to wikitechy.com
  </body>
</html>
```

Code Explanation for <body> tag:

```
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
  <body> → 1
    Welcome to wikitechy.com
  </body>
</html> ↓ 2
```

1. Body tag - start with <body> and end with </body>.
2. "Welcome to wikitechy.com" - Defines in the body tag.

Output for <body> tag:

1. The term "Welcome to Wikitechy.com" is displayed in the output, which is declared within the body tag.

Browser Support for body tag:

Browser	Language attribute
Chrome	Yes
Internet explorer / Edge	Yes
Firefox	Yes
Safari	Yes
Opera	Yes